MARION HAGAN DAY ON JUNE 3

Bonny Oaks Worker Praised for Service

County Judge Wilkes T. Thrasher today signed a proclamation officially declaring June 3 as "Marion Hagan Day," and praised the assistant superintendent of Bonny Oaks School as a "tireless and selfless steward of the welfare of the boys and girls committed to our care."

Hagan was lauded by Supt. Malcolm Adamson and board members of the school who termed Hagan "one of the most unselfish people we know."

The proclamation stated:

"Whereas Marion Offutt Hagan, assistant superintendent of the Bonny Oaks School of this county, on May 31 of this year will have completed 25 years of service at this school; and

"Whereas during this quarter of a century, Marion Hagan has served with honor and competency in various capacities, including that of bookkeeper, business manager, acting superintendent and assistant superintendent; and

"Whereas during all these years his first interest has been the welfare, the happiness, and the effective training in citizenship of the children of Bonny Oaks School; and

"Whereas during his entire life, spent in this community, he has exemplified to a high degree the excellent attributes of a staunch and upright citizen, and of a devoted husband and father of a splendid family; and

"Whereas in his daily life, through the years, and in the capacities in which he has served, he has elicited the respect, love and good will of all privileged to know him;

"Now, therefore, as judge of the county of Hamilton, of the state of Tennessee, I officially proclaim Sunday, June 3, 1956, as Marion Hagan Day and call upon the citizens of Hamilton County to join in doing honor to this Christian gentleman, sterling citizen, steadfast friend and tireless and selfless steward of the welfare of the boys and girls committed to our care."
