

Original Home of Bonny Oaks School Where Guests Will Be Received Today

ABOVE is pictured the original home of the Bonny Oaks school, where the Rev. and Mrs. William S. Keese will hold open house from 2 to 6 p.m. today.

Visitors will be conducted through all the Bonny Oaks buildings and over the grounds by the students, who will act as a reception committee.

This old home in which the Rev. and Mrs. Keese and teachers reside has been restored in part into a comfortable residence without destroying any of its antique beauty and charm. The house has been the center of a checkered career. It was the Rotary club that made possible the restoration of the old building which from long disuse was fast falling into decay.

At 3 p.m. the students, both white and colored, will march to the tap of the bass and kettle drums, and will assemble around the veranda of this old residence, where an hour's program will be given. L. G. Walker, chairman of the Bonny Oaks board, will deliver grammar grade certificates to two boys, Leonard Grider and Lake Jones, and to one girl, Ruby Sandlin.

The children, under Miss Lillian Evans' training, are prepared to do creditable ensemble as well as two and three-part work in music. The colored boys will sing spirituals, for which they are becoming distinguished, and Thomas McDowell, who won the championship in oratory at the county field meet in April, will speak on "The Colored People's Debt to Lincoln."

From 4 to 5 p.m. the Chattanooga High school state champion band will give a concert on the campus. Exhibits of talent in art, sewing, as well as skill in manual art, will be displayed. All visitors are requested to register at the entrance. The public, generally, both white and colored, is invited.
